Builder Agent Network Announces Exclusive Endorsement by the Texas Association of Builders

DALLAS, TX—May 18, 2010- The Builder Agent Network, emerging as a leading provider of insurance programs for home builders throughout Texas, has announced the exclusive endorsement by the Texas Association of Builders (TAB) as their preferred member service provider for property and liability insurance products. Builder Agent Network (BAN) is a managing general agent for several insurance companies and distributes insurance products through a network of approved agents that have met stringent requirement guidelines and have extensive knowledge and experience of the building industry. The exclusive property and liability insurance products are available to home builders and light commercial general contractors through this network of experienced agents.

“TAB is excited about the opportunities and competitive products that the Builder Agent Network offers our membership, the local HBAs and our state association,” said Scott Norman, executive director of TAB, Austin, Texas. “The last couple of years have seen quite a few changes in the statutory and regulatory framework under which Texas builders and remodelers operate. There have also been changes in the Texas builder insurance marketplace. TAB and the BAN stand ready to work together to promote and provide insurance solutions to our diverse and varied statewide membership.”

“We are committed to the Texas home builder and continue to be involved at the highest level to bring the best and most competitive products to Texas for the betterment of everyone involved in this industry including the home buyer,” said Doug Hotchkiss, president, Hotchkiss Insurance and Builder Agent Network. “As a whole, the Texas home building industry is better served by insurance agencies having multiple options when it comes to insurance. Builder Agent Network's products provide the most comprehensive insurance solutions available to the Texas home builders and light general contractors.”
